There was plenty of action Saturday at the Cardboard Sled Race at Arrowhead in Claremont. Always an annual favorite, this year's race drew a large range of highly creative designs. Here, the trek up the hill to get to the top of the tubing lanes. Right: This racer crosses the Finish Line, snow flying from beneath the front of the sled. ## Casella Waste Systems Partners with TPN to Support Violence Prevention in Local Schools

CLAREMONT, NH—Casella Waste Systems is leading an effort to forge a partnership with Turning Points Network (TPN) whose work is to identify, prevent and ultimately end personal violence through enhanced school-based prevention education programs and community-based education programs.

“As the first corporate member of our Violence-Prevention Partnership, Casella has committed to making a sustaining gift of more than $1,000 annually to Turning Points Network in support of the education programs TPN brings to K-12 students throughout Sullivan County,” it was announced by Deborah Mozden, Executive Director of Turning Points Network.

With roots in Vermont and operations throughout the Northeast, Casella has grown over 40+ years to manage more than 170,000 customer locations throughout the US with safe, dependable and environmentally-friendly waste and recycling services. And, by focusing on wasting less and recycling more, Casella helps businesses and communities to conserve resources, protect the climate, support jobs and create value, said Mozden.

“We are pleased to join with Turning Points Network in bringing important messaging to the next generation about respect for every one, healthy relationships, anti-bullying and understanding diversity, said Paula McLaughlin, Territory Manager of Casella. "We believe that violence-prevention education programs in our schools are a vital part of empowering our community to be kind, caring and productive."

"And we encourage other Sullivan County business leaders to join us in ensuring that the values of TPN's mission will continue to enhance the safety and well-being of survivors of domestic and sexual abuse while establishing a safer culture in our local community."

McLaughlin added, "This kind of partnership is a win for everyone."

Turning Points Network, for the last 40 years, has provided a free, nonjudgmental and supportive crisis and support center that includes a 24-hr crisis and information hotline, a 16-bed emergency shelter, court advocacy, peer counseling, economic independence training and sustainable housing.

Casella has consistently led the waste industry in offering services and infrastructure that help communities and customers sustain – economically as well as environmentally – the planet's limited resources. The company's commitment to deliver "a wide-range of services to homes, businesses and organizations aligns with TPN's commitment to zero tolerance for violence and to strengthen communities with a culture of respect, compassion, and open-mindedness."

NH House Happenings

By Rep. John Cloutier

Legalized Sports Betting in NH?

Gov. Christopher Sununu's newly-proposed two-year operating and capital budgets contain no new taxes or fees, recommend no higher taxes or fees but is willing to consider legalizing sports betting in the Granite State as a way to raise extra revenue.

On Feb. 14, Gov. Sununu gave his biennial budget address before a joint meeting of New Hampshire's House of Representatives and Senate in the House Chamber. After unveiling both budgets in his address, the two were immediately submitted to the OLS (Office of Legislative Services) for drafting into actual legislation, both of which will be first considered by the House before being examined by the Senate. For readers' information, the proposed operating budget, traditionally known as House Bill 1, will be thoroughly studied by the House Finance Committee, while capital budget will be reviewed by my committee, House Public Works & Highways.

In his budget address, the Governor stated that both his proposed budgets make "strategic investments in among other things, education, justice and public safety, environmental stewardship, economic stability, and mental health." He especially emphasized that his budget is balanced without a sales or income tax, to the standing applause of many legislators, especially fellow Republicans. He added that the proposal does not "create any taxes, or increase fees," and continues the existing round of business tax cuts approved by previous Republican legislatures within the past few years. Tax cuts, which he claimed, "have grown the New Hampshire economy." His support for sports betting came as a bit of surprise, but many other states are now considering legalizing such betting in light of last year's United States Supreme Court ruling that permits it. Despite the continued tax cuts, he declared that his proposal would add another $12.3 million to the "Rainy Day Fund," on top of $15 million in surplus money from the previous operating budget he wants to add. Consequently, the sum of this total $27.3 million budget surplus would result in a record grand total of $137.3 million in the Rainy Day Fund," according to him.

More specifically, budget highlights include the following. First, the Education Trust Fund, which provides much of the state aid to Grade K-12 public education, would be combined with the General Fund. Gov. Sununu stated that he decided to combine the two funds at the request of various state agencies. Among other reasons, he said the Education Trust Fund has "never functioned as it was originally intended," resulting in the General Fund having to bail out the first fund almost every two-year budget cycle. This combination should increase "fiscal transparency and reporting," with "absolutely no impact on the disbursement of education support to public schools," he said.

Gov. Sununu's proposed operating budget would also increase special education aid to $26.5 million, the highest level since 2012. Also included is an additional $8.6 million for Tuition & Transportation Aid for qualifying students. Next, funding for New Hampshire's charter schools would be "stabilized and enhanced," according to the Governor. Additionally, I am pleased to note that the proposal would appropriate $63.7 million in one-time General Fund surplus money for Targeted School Building Aid Grants to property-poor school districts like Claremont on a "pay as you go" basis. Hopefully, Claremont can take advantage of some of this grant money, if it desires. Finally, on top of building aid grants to qualifying public schools, his proposed capital budget would allocate a total of $20.3 million in bonded money to public schools for technical equipment as well as renovations to the Rochester and Hudson Community Technical Education Centers or CTEs. These CTEs provide career training for students not wishing to go on to college.

The proposed operating budget would also provide $32.5 million in student debt assistance over the next two years without using taxpayer dollars. But the Governor did not specify from exactly where the $32.5 million he mentioned would be coming from, from the best that I could determine. As for the capital budget proposal, it would bond $10 million for the University of New Hampshire's Biological Sciences Initiative. Also, the same proposal would bond $6.475 million for the NH Community College System to be used for critical maintenance, safety, and master plans at all community college campuses, including RVCC.

In the area of mental health, the proposed operating budget would allow our state to take a big step forward. Overall, a total of $40 million would be allocated to undertake major innovations. First, some of the funds would be used to construct a new 60-bed forensic facility on the grounds of the New Hampshire State Hospital in Concord. Second, another portion would be utilized to build 40 transitional beds around our state to provide patients with a pathway back into their communities. Third and finally, yet another portion would be used to find new and more child and adolescent-focused space for kids currently being housed at the State Hospital. In summary, the Gov. Sununu declared that the $40 million would result in 108 new DRF (Designated Receiving Facility) beds which would enable the state to move the the currently civilly-committed population out of the Secure Psychiatric Unit, that is on the grounds of the state prison in Concord. It would also enable the state to eliminate the Emergency Dept. Waitlist. Finally, the budget proposal would appropriate another $3 million to help community hospitals deal with with mentally-ill individuals at the local level.

Gov. Sununu's operating budget would also allocate funds that should eliminate another waitlist, the Developmentally Disabled Waitlist. Such elimination would occur by providing $61 million more per year towards services for the developmentally disabled, including a 2.5 percent rate increase for the direct service providers who help some of New Hampshire's most vulnerable citizens. Appropriating more money for mental health and developmentally-disabled is an action for which I applaud the Governor. But while I am pleased by several sections of his proposed operating and capital budgets, I am disappointed that the proposal doesn't do more to reduce Claremont's high property taxes as well as provide more revenue to fix our deteriorating roads and bridges as well as improve public transportation.

Letter to the Editor

Farmers’ Market Moving Back to Broad St. Park

To The Editor:

I want to thank again all of you who commented on the location of the new farmers’ market. You have spoken and we have listened. We will be moving the market to Broad Street, Saturdays, from 10:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m., with further discussions on how to make it safe for customers who park around the park and in the public parking lot across the street, as that has always been a major concern of ours.

To answer some questions/comments that were posted, I want to provide you with some background information as to how this new market was established.

With discussion of the farmers’ market not returning for the 2018 season, Vital Communities, an Upper Valley agency that is highly involved with farmers’ markets in the area, approached the City Parks & Recreation Department about overseeing a new market, similar to how the Lebanon farmers’ market is run. By the time it was agreed upon, the position posted, and I was hired, it was mid-March, with 2 ½ months for me to put together a new farmers’ market. The location, day and time change had already been made before I was hired, and I was agreeable to them. Because of the lateness in looking for vendors, it was impossible to find prepared food vendors as they had already booked elsewhere. We did have five full-time vendors and about 30 part-time vendors that came one week and up to 10 weeks during the 16 weeks of the season. We averaged 10-12 vendors each week. Our vendors sold fruits and vegetables, eggs, meats, breads, cakes, pies, cookies, cupcakes, quiches, drinks, jams and jellies, pickled items, coffee and hot chocolate, chocolate frozen pops, and Southwest egg rolls. One vendor brought chickens, which laid eggs at the market; another vendor brought a baby goat; another vendor brought baby chicks; and another vendor trained a dog on the spot to not pull on the leash when walking. We had non-profit vendors and craft vendors. There was weekly entertainment. The eight-week POP (Power of Produce) children’s program was a huge success, with 306 kids visiting, learning about healthy eating and ‘earning’ $900 in POP Bucks to spend at the market for fresh fruits and vegetables. We will be continuing the POP program this year. We accepted the EBT card and some vendors accepted credit cards. We advertised in local newspapers, and magazines; had CCTV ads; were on social media several times each week and during the day of the market via Facebook, the market website and the e-Ticker; placed a banner on the hill below Golden Cross and on the fence at the parking lot; had at least six 10’ flags at the parking lot, two on either side of North Street on Washington, at the parking garage, and at North and Main, along with sandwich board and yard signs; we placed two sandwich board signs at the Broad Street Park on Thursdays notifying people that the market had been changed; had a float in the alumni parade; and posters and flyers were in business windows and on bulletin boards around town.

Last year Vital Communities procured a grant for the market to start. That, along with local sponsorships and vendor fees, is what allowed the market to happen. The market has to be self-sustaining or it won’t continue. The City does not get anything from the market.

All that being said, we are still looking for vendors and entertainment for the market. You can go to <http://www.claremontnh.com/residents/departments/parks-and-recreation/farmers-market.aspx> for an application and rules. Our fees are the same as last year, $13/week for a full-time vendor and $16/week for part-time vendors. Special discounts for returning vendors will apply if you register before March 1st. See the application for further information.

So, now that it has been moved, I want to see the park full of customers! You asked and we listened. Now, come support the vendors you said you couldn’t see on the Green!

Superintendent Search Update

Sara Lowe of the Unity School Board recently provided an update on the search for a new superintendent for SAU 6.

“The application window for the position of Superintendent of the SAU 6 School Districts closed January 15, 2019, with a total of 15 applications made,” said Lowe. “The SAU 6 Superintendent Search Committee reviewed all applications using the criteria established through a process developed by the Center for Secondary School Redesign and based in large part on the results of the public survey sent out to the greater SAU 6 community in November, 2018.

“Five applicants were identified as having experience and characteristics that were well-aligned with the established criteria. Preliminary phone interviews were conducted with each of these applicants in the two week period following the end of the application window. Each phone interview was carefully reviewed by the Search Committee and scored relative to the established search criteria.”

According to Lowe, three candidates were selected to move forward to extended, in-depth interviews, which were expected to be conducted over the course of last week. The Committee expects to make a decision regarding candidates to move forward to an in-person, all day district tour and a public, evening, Meet and Greet, by the end of February.

“The candidate tours of our school districts are tentatively scheduled to be held on Monday March 4, with the public Meet and Greet tentatively scheduled to be held at the Sugar River Valley Technical Center Teal Lantern room from 6:00 to 8:00 p.m. that evening,” said Lowe. More information will be publicized as the schedule is finalized, she added.

Audits Completed for Springfield Medical Care Systems

SPRINGFIELD, VT— It was announced on Feb. 13 that a forensic and certified independent audit, both ordered by Springfield Medical Care Systems’ (SMCS) Board of Directors and shared with the State of Vermont’s Agency of Human Services, are providing “important information to the organization’s leadership as it considers necessary changes that will help the health system move toward a strengthened financial outlook,” said SMCS.

The forensic audit, conducted by the Berry-Dunn accounting firm, reviewed documents, such as bank statements, check disbursements, credit card statements and payroll distributions, from October 2017 through December 2018. Auditors also talked to employees inside the organization. Auditors found no evidence of funds being used improperly, such as for personal gain, said SMCS.

“Our Board ordered this audit to explore and review records and review and implement improvements to internal controls, so we can keep providing quality care to this community,” said Michael Halstead, Interim Chief Executive Officer. “The forensic audit does show that at times, former leadership did not report to our Board all of the information that was needed to make strategic decisions. That is something we are fixing.”

In order to safeguard the organization’s assets, the forensic audit suggests that the Board and leadership should review internal controls, training and the Board’s investment policies, which all agree must all be addressed. Governance and financial management are among the priorities as decisions are made for the organization’s future.

“It’s important to note that the audit did not reveal anything that could have affected patient care,” Halstead added. We will implement changes necessary to help get us back on solid financial footing.”

The full audit of SMCS, was also conducted by BerryDunn and covers the time period ending September 30, 2018. It shows a significant operating loss and also provides specific guidance to leadership about financial challenges.

“This is the audit information we were expecting,” said Halstead. “Since our management team arrived in Springfield to see the situation up close, we had a good sense of the numbers we were dealing with and what it will take to reverse the financial trends. The audit confirms what we believed to be the case – increased patient revenues did not exceed the growth in expenses which led to a low cash position.”

The audit shows that approximately two-thirds of SMCS’s loss was due to increases in employee benefit costs. It also shows SMCS provided approximately $2 million in charity care for members of the community.

The auditors noted that the System provided them with all of the sufficient and appropriate evidence in order to complete their examination, said SMCS.

“This audit information will prove valuable as we complete the difficult, but necessary job of working with the community to secure the financial future of this organization,” added Halstead.

The organization announced earlier that approximately 27 positions will be eliminated. System-wide wage reductions will take effect February 24, 2019, and include 10% for salaried positions, 4% for hourly staff, and a negotiated amount from contracted staff. A spokesperson said at the time that “To be clear, the situation is fluid, and it is possible further staffing adjustments will be necessary. The need to identify further cost savings remains.”

Alstead Man Sentenced for Receiving Stolen Property and Falsifying Physical Evidence

NEWPORT, NH— On Feb. 13, 2019, Benjamin Jacobs, 33, of Alstead, NH, was sentenced in Sullivan Superior Court, after previously entering pleas of guilty, to serve a 12-month term of incarceration at the Sullivan County House of Corrections for felony receiving stolen property. All but 90 days of the sentence was suspended for a period of two years, conditioned upon good behavior and compliance with the terms of this sentence. Jacobs was ordered to be supervised by the New Hampshire Department of Corrections – Probation/Parole for a period of two years. Jacobs was further sentenced to a two-to-four year period of incarceration at the New Hampshire State Prison for falsifying physical evidence, all of which was suspended for a period of three years, conditioned upon good behavior and compliance with the terms of that sentence. That sentence, if imposed, will be served consecutively to the sentence for receiving stolen property.

Jacobs was arrested on July 3, 2018, after an investigation into a theft of multiple kayaks from a residential property in the town of Lempster. Trooper Brandon Dean initiated the investigation on June 16, 2018, after receiving a report of the stolen kayaks. Dean subsequently identified Jacobs as the suspect, and further uncovered certain steps Jacobs took to disguise his involvement in the theft. Jacobs’ conduct in covering up his involvement resulted in the falsifying physical evidence conviction.

Councilor Raises Issue of Publicly Censuring Colleague for Social Media Posts

By Phyllis A. Muzeroll
e-Ticker News

CLAREMONT, NH—During the latter minutes of its meeting Wednesday night, during the portion intended to set the next agenda, the issue of publicly censuring one councilor for his social media posts late last year was raised by Councilor Abigail Kier. “So, we’ve heard a lot recently from citizens and I agree that I don’t feel like we’ve well addressed their concerns,” she said. “While each of us has individual rights and I’m cautious about infringing on those, I also think that it’s paramount to our success as a council to encourage trust in ourselves and the City through our actions and hold ourselves and each other to a higher standard to meet those goals. So with that in mind, I would recommend that we as a council do what is in our power, which is to issue a public censure of Councilor Stone in reference to interactions with a resident whose opinions he did not agree with...How can we stand for anything if we can’t stand for our citizens?”

Mayor Charlene Lovett said that she had sought legal counsel and wanted to give councilors time to process the information as to what their options were regarding Councilor Jonathan Stone. Kier said that with their having receiving that counsel a month earlier, she was concerned there was a public perception that nothing was being done.

Kier’s call for public censure was regarding Stone’s leaving posts on social media directed at a resident, Sam Killay, who has been calling for the removal of the nativity and menorah from the Christmas display in Broad Street Park. Stone’s posts heavily criticized Killay, who describes himself as an atheist, and Stone also was accused by Killay’s wife, Trish, of harassing her on social media, making her feel threatened as a result of responses to Stone’s posts. She also said Stone shared a photo from her Facebook page. Since December, a number of citizens have spoken during Citizens Forum, calling for Stone to resign from the council.

Assistant Mayor Allen Damren seconded Kier’s motion.

An angry Stone responded to Kier’s recommendation, demanding, “You all should do some independent investigation to find out what the merits of this are. I don’t know what investigation you’ve done, other than some emails sent to you, but maybe I’ll find out.” He then went further, calling for the council to discuss having an independent investigation look into Lovett and whether she violated the City charter by allegedly interfering with the duties of former City Manager Ryan McNutt, who was fired in early January, “since that’s been brought up numerous times,” said Stone. McNutt, at the time of his termination, accused the council, and Lovett in particular, of micro-managing him. A number of citizens have spoken at several Citizens Forums, including Wednesday night, calling for McNutt to be rehired, and alleging such interference by councilors and the mayor. No evidence backing up those allegations has been presented by those making the charges. Other residents have spoken during Citizens Forum supporting McNutt’s termination.

Councilor Andrew O’Hearne reminded those in Council Chambers that the discussion was to set the next agenda; the motion to censure Stone was withdrawn Wednesday, with the matter being moved to the Feb. 27th agenda.

There is no policy on the books in Claremont regarding council behavior when it comes to social media at this time; creating such a policy is one of the things that has been discussed since the matter of Stone’s posts surfaced late last year. The City’s Code of Conduct was adopted in 2003, long before the challenges of social media developed.

The advertisement for Jozach Jewelers features a woman with long, wavy hair looking thoughtfully to the side. She is wearing a dark, sleeveless top. The background is dark with a subtle starry pattern. In the upper right, there is a diamond icon above the text "JOZACH JEWELERS" and "FINE DIAMONDS AND GIFTS". Below this, there are two pairs of earrings: one pair is large, circular, and multi-layered with diamonds, and the other is smaller, similar in design. At the bottom, the text "GOLDEN MOON" is displayed in a stylized font. ## CITY-WIDE METER UPGRADE PROJECT

The Claremont Water Department is currently working in neighborhoods around the entire City replacing aging water meters. Most meters are installed inside your home, typically in the basement area. The new meters are lead-free and also feature radio read technology, which means we will now be able to read your meter from the street.

There is NO cost to you for this replacement.

Technicians may knock on your door for access to the meter or leave a gold-colored tag with the office contact information to schedule an appointment. The men will be carrying an ID Badge and driving City DPW marked pickup trucks.

Appointments typically take approximately 20 minutes to remove the old meter and replace the new one. We will take the old meter away for you.

Now through March, the Water Department has expanded appointment hours:

Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday: 7:15 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.*

Wednesday: 6:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.*

* Weather Permitting (may be required to reschedule in the event of a major snowstorm)

Please note, some homes may show signs of aging plumbing or risk of failure around the meter installation area. The technician will not replace the meter until the homeowner has made the appropriate repairs to the plumbing.

Claremont City Code Section 20-173:

The meter belongs to the City and, as a condition of receiving City water, the homeowner must provide access to the meter by Water Division employees. ... The property owner shall provide a suitably protected, accessible and secure location and plumbing to accept the meter. The meter shall remain the property of the City.

Should you like to contact the Water Department for more information or schedule an appointment, please call

504-0356

Thank you

Claremont Vet Honored by Lake Sunapee VNA

CLAREMONT, NH – Claremont resident Clayton “Dick” McCullough was honored by Lake Sunapee Region VNA & Hospice (LSRVNA) on February 5 as part of the national We Honor Veterans program. LSRVNA has been a We Honor Veterans Partner since 2011, which involves meeting specific requirements to enhance care for patients who served in the military. For those Veterans who are interested, that includes a special in-home recognition ceremony conducted by LSRVNA staff.

McCullough grew up in Newport, RI, and graduated from Rogers High School with a focus on the building trades. A brave man, he married Evelyn, a widow with six children! Evelyn and he then had daughter Julie. It is with Julie Davis and her husband Rob with whom Dick now lives in Claremont. Evelyn died in May 2017.

McCullough is proud of his extensive military service. First, he joined the United States Navy, where he served as a Seaman Recruit and was honorably discharged in February 1951. Next, he joined the United States Air Force from which he was honorably discharged in September 1955, reenlisted and was again honorably discharged in September 1961. He finished out his military career serving with the United States Air National Guard of Rhode Island through January 1980. During his military career, McCullough served in Japan, Korea and Panama. He received many excellent evaluations for his thoroughness and willingness to always go beyond what was expected with any task assigned. He also received a Good Conduct Medal.

While in the Air Force, McCullough served in the administrative and personnel fields, advancing from records and finance clerk to chief clerk in a Wing Headquarters Squadron. In 3½ years, he was promoted to the grade of Staff Sergeant. Though not much of a talker about his military assignments, McCullough acknowledged to his daughter that while stationed at Kimbo Air Base in Korea, he was assigned to the 67th Tactical Reconnaissance Wing. This unit was responsible for aerial intelligence for both air and ground units, leading fighter sweeps and directing fighter-bombing strikes. The unit also provided photographic intelligence of enemy activities.

“We are pleased to honor Dick’s extraordinary service to our country,” said Barbara Woolley, LSRVNA Social Worker.

For more information about We Honor Veterans, contact LSRVNA at 603-526-4077.

Claremont Savings Bank TIPS

WHAT’S THE DIFFERENCE?

HRA vs. HSA

The money in an HRA (health reimbursement account) is provided solely by the employer. HRAs are usually unfunded estimated accounts, with no cash value. An HSA (health savings account) is a tax-advantaged account that can be used to pay for IRS-defined health care expenses, including long-term care and COBRA premiums.

Comedian Juston McKinney Returns to COH

CLAREMONT, NH—New England's Juston McKinney returns to the Claremont Opera House Saturday, March 23, 8:00 p.m., with lots of new material.

It's been a busy year for McKinney, having just filmed a Showtime Special with Rob Gronkowski, "Unsportsmanlike Comedy", performed at the TD Garden with Denis Leary and Jimmy Fallon as part of "Comics Come Home", and having shot his new special "Parentally Challenged". McKinney is consistently selling out theaters, has two Comedy Central Specials, a one-hour and half-hour, multiple appearances on the Tonight Show, and on Conan O'Brien, but there's no place like home.

When NH Magazine named him "Best of NH", they wrote, "The Granite State may have more famous comedians than you can shake a stick at (Seth Meyers, Sarah Silverman and Adam Sandler to name a few), but no one really "gets" New England humor like Juston McKinney."

His Youtube/facebook channels have millions of views, which include NH favorites such as "Clark's Trading Post", "Live Free or Die" and "Live Freeze then Die!".

McKinney was born in Portsmouth and he currently lives in New Hampshire with his wife, two children and two dogs.

Tickets can be purchased online at www.claremontoperhouse.org, where you have the option to print at home; by phone, at 603-542-4433; or in person at the Opera House Box office in City Hall Complex at 58 Opera House Square, Claremont, NH.

Upper Valley Habitat Accepting Applications for Lebanon Home

WHITE RIVER JCT., VT – Upper Valley Habitat for Humanity (UVHFH) is now accepting applications for homeownership of an existing house in Lebanon, NH.

Ideal for a family of 3 to 5, this single-level home situated on 3 acres was built in 2006. The finished main floor is 1024 square feet and has 3 bedrooms, a full bathroom, an open-floor concept living space and eat-in kitchen (with pantry), as well as a separate mudroom. There is a full basement with a large unfinished bedroom that meets egress requirements.

There is a wooden deck on the southern side of the house and an 80 square foot shed on the property.

The house is 10 minutes from Alice Peck Day Memorial Hospital, just over 4 miles to I-89, and about a 5-minute drive from Colburn Park (or the Lebanon Green). The driveway is shared with two other neighboring Habitat homes.

The selected Habitat partner family will be required to contribute 500 hours of “sweat equity” before purchasing this house in spring of 2020. Most of these hours will be conducted at a new home construction project in Lebanon, but a portion will be devoted to minor renovations of this home before they move into it.

Applications are due Friday, March 15, 2019. For eligibility guidelines and an application, please visit <https://www.uppervalleyhabitat.org/homeownership/>.

For questions or further information, please contact Eva Loomis at (802) 295-1854 or office@uppervalleyhabitat.org. Upper Valley Habitat for Humanity is a 501(c)3 nonprofit.

Martha Bruce to Speak at Lake Sunapee VNA Annual Meeting

NEW LONDON, NH—"Aging with Confidence: Real Challenges, Real Solutions" is the topic guest speaker Martha Bruce, PhD, MPH, will present at this year's Lake Sunapee VNA Annual Meeting. Bruce is a Professor and

Martha Bruce, PhD, MPH

Health Services Researcher at Dartmouth. Her research focuses on the mental health and psychosocial needs of older adults, especially among homebound, frail, medically complex and other high-risk groups. Working in partnership with community providers such as home health, aging services and primary care, she integrates clinical, sociological and public health perspectives in the development of sustainable interventions to reach as many individuals in need as possible with a goal to increase the ability to live independently and enhance quality of life. Much of her research support has come from the National Institutes of Health, and she is currently funded by the AARP Foundation to address social isolation in Meals-on-Wheels clients.

"We are thrilled that Dr. Bruce is willing to share her insights with our community, especially since 'Aging with Confidence' is one of the key themes that rose to the surface in our most recent Community Health Needs Assessment," said Jim Culhane, President and CEO. "While we know that our population is aging rapidly, we also know there is a growing concern about aging confidently. We encourage community members to attend this free event."

The Annual Meeting will be held on Tuesday, March 5, at 4:00 p.m. at the First Baptist Church, 461 Main Street, New London.

In addition to Bruce's presentation, Lake Sunapee VNA will announce the winners of this year's "Volunteer Excellence Award" and "Imagine the Possibilities Staff Award."

One Credit Union Doubles the Size of its 2019 Scholarship Program

SPRINGFIELD, VT— Brett Smith, President and CEO of One Credit Union, announced the 2019 Scholarship Program. Each year the Credit Union awards six scholarships to qualified high school seniors looking to continue their education. To qualify, applicants must maintain a GPA of 3.0 or better, demonstrate financial need, and be eligible for membership at One Credit Union. Candidates also submit a 300-word essay explaining their experience with teamwork and community building, something One Credit Union is passionate about.

“Continuing education is important, be it collegiate or vocational,” said Smith. “We understand financing it is no easy task, and we are here to help our members. This year, One Credit Union is doubling down on its investment in our future leaders, increasing the 2019 Scholarships to $1,000.00 each.” Applications are available online at www.onecu.org/scholarship.

Deadline for submissions is April 15th, 2019.

The Right Insurance Can Meet Both Short- and Long-Term Needs

If you're going to achieve your important financial goals, you'll need to build an appropriate investment portfolio. But that's only part of the story – because you also need to protect what you have, what you earn and what you'd like to leave behind. That's why it's a good idea to become familiar with the various types of insurance and how they can address short- and long-term needs.

For starters, consider life insurance. You may have important long-term goals, such as leaving an inheritance for your family and providing resources for your favorite charities. You may be able to fulfill some of these through the death benefit on your policy.

You can also purchase life insurance to help fill the gap between the amounts you have saved and what your family would need if you died unexpectedly. Thus, insurance can pay for liabilities (such as a mortgage, car payments, student loans and other debts), education expenses (such as college for your children) and final expenses associated with your passing. Next, consider disability insurance. If you were injured or became ill and couldn't work for a while, the loss of income could be a big problem for your family members – in fact, it could disrupt their entire lifestyle. Even a short-term disability could prove worrisome, while a long-term disability could be catastrophic. Your employer might offer short-term disability insurance, and that could be enough – but do you really want to take that chance? To protect your income if you were out of work for an extended period, you might need to supplement your employer's coverage with your own long-term disability policy. Long-term disability insurance, which generally kicks in after you've used up your short-term benefits, may pay you for a designated time period (perhaps two to five years) or until you reach a certain age, such as 65. Long-term disability insurance likely won't replace your entire income, but it can go a long way toward helping you stay "above water" until you recover.

You may also want to think about long-term care insurance. Despite its name, a long-term care policy could meet either short- or long-term needs. On the short-term end, you might need the services of a home health care aide to assist you in your recovery from an injury such as a broken hip. On the other end of the long-term care scale, you might someday need an extensive stay in a nursing home, which can be extremely expensive and which isn't typically covered by Medicare. But in either case, you might be able to benefit from a long-term care insurance policy, or possibly a long-term care rider attached to a life insurance policy. And the earlier you take action, the better, because long-term care insurance, in particular, generally becomes more expensive the older you get.

This list of insurance policies, and the needs they can help meet, is certainly not exhaustive, but it should give you an idea of just how important the right insurance coverage can be for you – at almost any stage of your life.

It's About Food

By Johnny Navillus

Chili?

With any slow cooker dish, remember that you are essentially braising the food. Any piece of meat will do well, especially the tougher cuts. I wouldn't think of doing a stew or a roast or chili without using the cooker. It's almost a guaranteed winner. Just don't take the cover off until it is done. This is the hardest part. Smelling that aroma and not being able to look or taste. I just leave the house.

Speaking of aromas, a new hand soap made its appearance in my home this week. It is scented with rosemary and mint. I'm not a fan of mint, but this soap has me thinking of roast lamb. I haven't had lamb in several years, but this has me thinking. So much of the food experience is tied to aromas. It is our first encounter with the meal. It starts the experience even before we can see the dish. If that first encounter is good, it sets the tone for the rest of the meal.

Chili. I have said this before. I don't give out recipes or discuss chili with most folks. This is such an emotional subject that voices can be raised quickly. So I avoid discussing religion, politics and chili until I know someone very well. Even then I don't push it. There are more ways of making chili than there are chili cooks.

So, what caused the title this week? Just a couple of hints for those considering their first venture into the arena of chili cooks.

Welcome. You won't be disappointed.

Use a slow cooker. You won't go wrong. Leave the Dutch Oven to the experts. Find a recipe that you want to start with. Stick to this one at first and play with it later. Make sure it is an easy one. Use canned beans. The overnight soaking is for the experts.

Gather up all your seasonings and spices. Measure them into a bowl and stir them up. At some point, you are going to add a liquid, ex.: water, beef stock or broth, or beer but some liquid. Measure it out and blend in the spices so you have an even distribution of flavors through your chili. The slow cooker won't allow stirring during the process so now is the time to "bloom" your flavors.

If you haven't used a slow cooker before, never remove the cover until you are ready to serve. It takes a long time for that temperature to build up again.

You are cooking with a liquid, so you don't need to check if anything is sticking to the bottom. The only thing that might stick is a roast, but you have made a bed of carrots for it to rest on. No excuses. Keep the lid on.

If your cooker has those clamps to keep the cover on when transporting your meal, make sure they are NOT in use during cooking. The steam needs a way to escape and fill your house with fantastic aromas.

That's it for chili. Keep playin'. Play with your food. You're in good company.

Newport Man Charged with Felony Domestic Assault and Theft of a Vehicle

LEBANON, NH—On February 12, at approximately 12:55 a.m., Lebanon Police Officers responded to an address on Romano Circle for a report that a male subject had allegedly assaulted a 23-year-old female and then left in her vehicle without her permission. According to a statement released by Lebanon Police Chief Richard Mello, a subsequent investigation took place, with police alleging that Nickolas S. Kemp, age 20, of Newport, NH, had choked his girlfriend to the point where “she could not breath or talk during an argument”. Mello said that the victim “fought back to stop the assault” and that Kemp left the address with another male subject, allegedly in the victim’s vehicle.

A “Be on the Lookout” alert was issued to area police departments for Kemp and the vehicle, and the Windsor, VT, Police Department located the vehicle in their town, said Mello. Kemp was subsequently arrested by the Cornish, NH, Police Department after a pursuit and transported back to Lebanon where he was charged with 2nd Degree Assault and Theft of a Motor Vehicle, both Class B Felony charges.

Kemp refused the services of a bail commissioner and was transported to the Grafton County House of Correction pending arraignment in the Grafton County Superior Court, said Mello.

Brotherhood of Fire Service Shines Again as Hartford, VT, Loans Engine to Charlestown Dept. Following Amtrak/Truck Crash

CHARLESTOWN, NH—On February 3rd, Super Bowl Sunday, at 5:25 p.m., the Charlestown Fire Department was toned for a motor vehicle accident on Route 12 in South Charlestown for a truck that had gone over the guardrail and was on the train tracks. Charlestown Engine 1 responded with a crew of four; Charlestown Police Department confirmed with dispatch that a truck was in fact on the tracks. Charlestown dispatch contacted Amtrak dispatch, located in St. Johnsbury, VT, to have the train stopped.

“A major contributing factor to the train hitting the truck was a seven-to-nine minute delay in the Amtrak dispatch to relay the stop the train message to the train,” said Amy Rumrill of the Charlestown Fire Department. “The train made impact with the truck at a speed of approximately 75 mph. On this stretch of tracks the train is cleared for speeds of up to 80 mph. The train had seen that there was something on the tracks and had engaged its emergency braking at the time of impact. When the train hit the truck, it caused a debris field. This debris then made impact with Charlestown Engine 1, causing damage to the front of the engine.”

Despite the seriousness of what happened that night, generosity has stepped forward to help out.

“The upside to this story is the true brotherhood of the Fire Service,” said Rumrill. “With the assistance of Upper Valley Mutual Aid Association and Ascutney Fire Chief, Darin Spaulding, there was a loaner truck found for Charlestown Fire Department to use. The Hartford, VT, Fire Department offered Charlestown their reserve engine at no cost to the town as a loaner while the damaged engine is being repaired. A well deserved thank you goes out to Hartford, VT, Fire Department and everyone else involved in helping us get an engine to use in our time of need.”
