ing play and Lebanon would waste little time in getting on the scoreboard as they got a short touchdown run from Wade Rainey, who also added the extra point for a quick 7-0 lead.

The Cardinals would quickly even the score on their next possession. Facing a 4th down and 2 at the Lebanon 43 yard line, Baylor Rozzell took a direct snap and outran the Lebanon defense down the left sideline for the touchdown. Gabe Spaulding added the conversion kick and the game was tied. Stevens would add to their lead after a bad snap on a punt set them up at the Lebanon 8 yard line. A penalty cost the Cardinals 10 yards and after a run and fumbled snap, Stevens faced a 4th and goal at the 11 yard line. Spaulding trotted on for a Field Goal attempt. His kick from 28 yards away split the uprights to give the Cardinals a 10-7 lead after a quarter.

Lebanon would own the remainder of the half as they got two more Rainey touchdown runs, and a Jon Willeman QB sneak to give them a 26-10 halftime lead.

Stevens made a few defensive adjustments and shut out the Raiders in the second half. The Cardinals closed the gap in the 4th quarter. After a missed Lebanon Field Goal attempt, the Cardinals would put together an impressive 11 play, 80 yard touchdown drive. Quarterback Quentin Bicknell made two big throws on the drive. The first was a 24 yard pass to Baylor Rozzell for a first down, and later in the drive a 34 yard connection with Damon Roy. Keaghan McAllister would cap the drive with a 4 yard touchdown run to cut the lead to 26-16.

That was as close as the Cardinals would get and they fell to 5-2 on the season. The Cardinals will return home as they will host the Trinity Pioneers at Barnes Park on Friday night. Stevens will be honoring their senior players and the Spirit team seniors, as well. Game time is 7PM.

SHS JV Football Team in Tough Game Against Laconia

The Stevens JV team hosted the Laconia Sachems at Barnes Park this past Tuesday afternoon and had a tough start, falling behind 24-0. But as the teams headed to the 4th quarter the Cardinals offense came alive.

Pascal Lemieux started the scoring with a 4 yard run. The conversion run was no good. Stevens got the ball back late in the quarter on a Hunter Christian fumble recovery. Keegan Batchelder would race 21 yards for a touchdown on a reverse and Zack Bundy connected with Clayton Wadsworth for the 2 point conversion to cut the Sachem lead to 24-14.

The onside kick was recovered by Laconia and they came away with the 24-14 win. The junior Cardinals will host the Lebanon Raiders on Monday afternoon at 4PM.

I Wonder Who...

By Priscilla Hull

I wonder who it is who paints the sky so blue.
Who gives us love and peace and joy the whole day through.

I wonder who it is who makes the days so bright.
Who makes the stars to shine all through the night.

I wonder who it is who makes the fall so bright.
Who makes the leaves red and gold, a beautiful sight.

I wonder who it is who taught the geese to fly.
Who makes them go from here to there, an arrow in the sky.

I wonder who it is who makes the butterflies fly south.
Who gives us juicy Apples, a pleasure to the mouth.

I wonder who it is who made the owl so wise.
Who makes the world so lovely to our eyes.

I wonder who it is who makes waves meet the shore.
Who makes the crow and eagle soar.

I wonder who it is who it is who gives us time each day.
Who makes us sing and rest and sleep and play.

I wonder who it is who shows us how to love.
'Tis God, 'tis God, my friend. His love comes from above.

The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof, the world and those who dwell therein. Psalm 24:1

Currently Hoszkiewicz is active in his parish of Our Lady of Czestochowa Church in Turners Falls, MA. Advice for your first job interview...

What to say

While every job - and therefore every job interview - is different, young people can often expect the hiring managers they meet with to ask them a handful of fairly common questions, and it's important to have good answers for them, according to Monster. Recent graduates will, for example, almost certainly be asked how their schooling prepared them for the open position, as a means of assessing how well they understand the role and what they can do to make themselves the ideal candidate. Often, answering this question requires specifics, so nailing down a good response in advance is always a good idea.

Hiring managers also ask recent grads the same kinds of things they ask more experienced professionals, such as questions about their biggest professional shortcomings or failures, the report said. While this can be an uncomfortable question to answer, companies are simply looking for a bit of self-reflection and a recognition of areas where growth is necessary; obviously, no company expects someone new to the workforce to have a full toolkit of skills, but those who are eager to build on what they have could be more attractive candidates.

What else to keep in mind

In addition, it's important for interviewees of all stripes to make sure they're making a good first impression, according to Live Career. That means dressing appropriately (the general rule of thumb is wearing business-casual for a casual-dress job, business for business-casual, and so on), practicing a firm handshake, making eye contact, and maintaining good posture.

Most of the time, young interviewees will have a little more slack from hiring managers than older counterparts, but it's still important to be as practiced and prepared as possible when entering this kind of meeting.

Thomas P. Heiser, Jr., 80

Thomas Philip Heiser, Jr., 80, died peacefully at home in Ascutney, VT, on October 2, 2018.

Born in New Jersey, Tom moved to Ascutney with his family in 1973 and lived there for 45 years. He served on the Claremont police force and worked several years for Warner Cable. He then joined his wife Elsie in a real estate appraisal business, Gernand Associates. They worked together for over 20 years until they both retired in 2009.

Tom became a dedicated member of the Volunteer Fire Department shortly after moving to Ascutney. He earned the rank of captain, serving in that role from 1980 to 1995. He earned lifetime membership 2000 and remained active with the department, issuing burning permits until the day before he passed.

Tom is survived by his wife Elsie of Ascutney, daughter Patricia of Helena MT, and son Thomas of Nantucket, MA. He is also survived by his brothers Gerard Heiser, Chris Heiser, and John Heiser, all of New Jersey.

In lieu of flowers, donations can be made to the Ascutney Volunteer Fire Association, P.O. Box 91, Ascutney, VT 05030.

Program Focuses On Improving Family Engagement, Stronger Student Outcomes

New report shows first year of work by the Department of Education, school districts and Scholastic to support New Hampshire families and students

CONCORD, NH – The New Hampshire Department of Education has released its end of year report for the New Hampshire Scholastic Center for Authentic Family Voice Report. The report provides a baseline of perceptions and expectations among families, teachers, and school administrators and involved family engagement workshops and participant surveys, all to support strong student learning. The work of the Center for Family Voice is a three-year project based off of the family engagement research by Dr. Karen Mapp of Harvard University.

Among other aspects, Mapp's work seeks to develop "Staff who can honor and recognize the wealth of knowledge that families possess, which can in turn assist schools with pedagogical priorities; and families that can negotiate multiple roles — as supporters, monitors, advocates, and decision makers for their children."

As a baseline project, schools and families were engaged in surveys and in Mapp's Family Engagement Workshop Series. The workshops consisted of three full-day sessions focused on the research on family and community engagement, creating high-impact family engagement events and building action plans for practices aligned with school improvement goals. Surveys covered the topics of building relationships with families, sharing information with families, and building capacity among families, all to support strong student learning. They provide communities with information about the alignment of expectations among families, teachers and administrators.

“We are excited about this work,” stated Frank Edelblut, the commissioner of education. “We know and research confirms that children thrive when families play an active role in their education. Students earn higher grades and test scores, enroll in higher-level academic programs, display better social skills and behaviors, and are more likely to go on to post-secondary opportunities.”

According to Education Consultant Mary Lane, this program is important because it links stakeholders together and builds relationships in order to improve student and school outcomes.

“Unless we engage our communities and families, the work is not complete,” she said.

Review: The Nun

By Bernadette O'Leary

The fifth chapter in a series that loosely follows the work of globally renowned Demonologists Ed and Lorraine Warren, The Nun, is in theaters now. This installment follows what many have claimed to be among the Warrens' most terrifying cases... but is it really?

The Nun takes us to a demonic haunting in an abbey after the death of a young nun. Investigations into the tragic event bring secrets to light that culminated in opening a doorway to evil. I do not want to give any spoilers, so the bulk of this review will be an explanation of my rating and the truth behind the film's origins.

If you follow the Warrens' work, enjoyed the previous installments to this franchise (known to some as "The Conjuring Universe"), or simply enjoy a good horror movie, you will likely enjoy this film. However, there are many details regarding the film that I must point out. The main problem with writing this review is that I am familiar with the Warrens. As someone who has long studied the Warrens' work, and who even spoke with them a few times prior to Ed's death, I know that the series of movies related to the Warrens' work took a great deal of creative freedom in the details. The Nun is no different. The only real similarity to actual Warren case files is that Lorraine Warren did in fact report an encounter with a slightly similar demon to the one depicted in this film. So, to say that this film is "based on actual events" is a gross overstatement. Another problem with reviewing this film is its subject matter. This movie covers a topic which professional parapsychologists and demonologists deem vital for the general public to understand: "the very real struggle between good and evil that exists in the world and the dangers of messing with it." On the flip side of that, there are just as many who claim that this topic of demons is highly dangerous and should not be mentioned, not even in the form of fictional movies. However, in the world of entertainment, there are many more people than what is found in those two other groups combined that flock to the topic. For these reasons, this particular movie was hard to review and apply a rating to.

In spite of, or perhaps because of, the controversial subject and misleading implications of it being based on actual events, I give The Nun 2.5 Crosses with 3 Trash Cans. As for my recommendation as to whether or not you should see it, there are two different schools of thought regarding whether or not it is the movie for you. The first, if you are someone who believes this topic is necessary for educating the masses on the dangers of messing with the supernatural, or if you simply enjoy a good horror movie, I highly recommend this movie to mature audiences. The second, if you are of the camps that dislike false implications of a story being based on real case files or that believe this type of thing should never be messed with, discussed, or utilized in the entertainment industry, I recommend that you stay as far away from it as possible. I would have given this film more stars if not for the creative freedom and insinuations that the story was based on actual case files.

In short, The Nun is great entertainment for someone who is simply looking to watch a good horror movie. It is currently still in many theaters, so check it out today. If it is not playing in your area, I recommend that all horror movie enthusiasts pick it up when it comes out on DVD.
